

ABSTRACT

Protein standard for estimating size and mass

The invention relates to a protein standard comprising a collection of at least three polypeptides of different size and mass. The polypeptides can be from natural or recombinant sources or both. The protein standard can be used for simultaneously estimating both the size and mass of another protein or other proteins.